Harvard University Law School CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course 2022 Edition

Call for Applications

CopyrightX is a course on Copyright Law developed by Professor William Fisher III at Harvard University Law School and first offered online in the spring semester of 2013, under the auspices of the HarvardX distance-learning initiative and the Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society. Since 2014, CopyrightX is also being offered as an affiliated course in several other countries, including Italy. The next Harvard University CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course will be taught from mid-February to mid-May of 2022.

The course explores the current law of copyright, the impact of that law on art, entertainment, and industry, and the ongoing debates concerning how the law should be reformed. Through a combination of recorded lectures, assigned readings, weekly seminars, live interactive webcasts, and online discussions, participants in the course, examine and assess the ways in which the copyright system seeks to stimulate and regulate creative expression.

Previous editions of the Harvard Law School CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course gathered together a very diverse group, including students at the Law School of the University of Turin and Alessandria and former participants in the LLM program in Intellectual Property Law jointly organized by the University of Turin and the World Intellectual Property Organization. Admission to the Harvard Law School CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course is free and is open to anyone holding a bachelor's degree. However, the process is highly competitive, and enrollment is limited to a maximum of 20 successful applicants.

The Harvard University CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course is coordinated by Maximiliano Marzetti, currently Assistant Professor of Law at IESEG School of Management in Paris, and former Deputy Director to the Master of Laws in Intellectual Property Law jointly organized by the University of Turin and the World Intellectual Property Organization, under the supervision of Alessandro Cogo, Associate Professor of Intellectual Property and Business Law at the University of Turin, School of Law and Director of the LLM in Intellectual Property jointly offered by the University of Turin and the World Intellectual Property Organization.

The Harvard Law School CopyrightX - Turin University Affiliated Course follows the outline of the Harvard online course, available here, with added material and particular emphasis on European law international and comparative perspectives. The course engages extensively with US, EU, comparative, and international law in the context of the theoretical background provided by Professor Fisher's lectures.

Seminars are held online, taught by the course's Lead Faculty, for one hour and a half each week, according to the schedule outlined below, and are supplemented with online discussion and assigned readings. Note that assistance to the weekly online sessions is mandatory and required to obtain the Certificate. If you are not sure you can comply with this commitment, please do not apply; you may preclude another qualified candidate that may be able to attend all of the sessions.
